Pragatik Itihas Parishad and Department of History
Spécial Lecture

Ambikabai Jadhav Women's College, Vajreshwari, in association with Department of History and Council apragatik Itihas Parishad . A special guided workshop on Subaltern History was organized in the college on 9th April 2022. On this occasion, the newly appointed Principal of the college Dr. Mahadev Kamble presided over the programme. Dr. Pragati Itihasi Parishad Maharashtra is the president of the organization to give special guidance to this program. Narayan Bhosle Department of History, University of Mumbai, and Mumbai was especially present. While proposing the program on this occasion, Head of History Department, Dr. Sugriv Andhale explores the different perspectives of popular traditions of history, from the imperialist tradition of writing history to subaltern history. Research is a continuous process and therefore it is our job to continuously research in history to create new knowledge and accordingly informed how there is a great tradition of writing the history of the people around the world today. There are different currents in history writing like imperialist approach, colonialist approach, nationalist approach, Marxist approach, feminist approach and now the approach of writing about the masses and through this current, the President of Progressive History Council. We all know that Narayan Bhosale is present that approach has such an influence on our writing and it gave detailed guidance on how history writing is done. The British wrote history from their imperial point of view and explained how they made some mistakes while understanding Indian history. He expressed his opinion about how the nationalist history writers glorified history by keeping the nation in front of their eyes. Marxist historians while looking at history wrote history thinking only about class struggle and feminist historians tried to write history from women's point of view only. After the middle of the 20th century, Gramsci, a member of the Italian Communist Party, who is a member of the Italian Communist Party, has given us a different view of history through his books called Subaltern History. Look at history from the bottom and then the awareness of history, he reminded us how we can realize knowledge in history in a different sense. In the history of the masses, the women, laborers, workers, common people are not mentioned anywhere in the history but they have a great contribution in making the history and the girls should read Gramsci's subaltern history so that you get a new perspective to look at the history. If there are any questions, ask them. After this the President of the program, Dr. Mahadev Kamble said that as much as the contribution of the king in the history is as much as the contribution of the common man in the society of that country, we realize from the history of the common people and therefore a movement to write the history of the common people should be created in history and appealed that you students can do the work of creating that movement. At this time the coordinator of the program Prof. Ramesh Gaikwad concluded the program by Prof. by Bhavesh Karpat.
